
Formiche

SMALL TABLES

Piero Lissoni

Description

Lightness and simplicity distinguish Formiche (Ants in English) complements. The slender supporting structure (making reference to the name), with its shape and finishing, picks up the theme of the legs in the sofa system. The rounded support of pewter-painted steel is connected by cross-bars to support the tops in different shapes, round, oval, or “kidney bean.” Various shapes and heights make it possible to compose different support systems. The tops themselves, made of transparent glass, light oak, titanium painted metal, or porcelain ceramic, white or grey stone, have a fine thickness of 8 mm.
